

Happy Day Nurse School 83-85	Jake Hobart was born on the 1st of April, 1981 in San Fran, California, U.S.A. After only a few short months he was transplanted to the tiny fishing village of New London, Connecticut. Hobart's early childhood was spent on these shores. He excelled in walking and talking at Happy Day Nursery School and then went on to Nathan Hale Elementary School where he showed great talent in the arts, politics, school plays, and hustling. The streets of Cali called though and the family moved to the rough streets of San Diego. At first, times were tough for the budding teen Hobart, but slowly he settled in. While at Twin Peaks and subsequently at Poway High he laid the bricks on the educational foundation he had built in New London. After a stellar career working at RBGC , the local golf course, and studying in Poway, the next step would take him to the harsh climes of Maine, dun dun dun. Hobart was accepted into prestigious Colby College , with dreams of a career in physics. These dreams quickly faded and Hobart drifted towards computers and interactivity, all the while holding a major in art. He would combine these two pursuits to form his own independent major, Digital Media, unheard of in the halls of the institution. While there he also edited the Arts Magazine, captained the golf team, and founded a much needed croquet club. The real world was knocking at young Hobart's door though and he opened it, let it in, and had a cup of tea with it. The Monday after graduating Hobart was off to the Big Apple to start an internship at Huge, Inc . After the summer he moved to 7Designers , and then on to Rowen Warren . All the while he was self-educating himself in libraries, bookstores, museums, and galleries. There he realized he needed to take the next step. This next step would take him far, far away. It would take him to an island filled with rain and fog, biscuits and trousers, to England. It was a warm, cloudless, un-British day when our young fearless Hobart crossed the threshold of the famed Central Saint Martins College of Art & Design . He was to become a Master, a Master of Communication Design. He excelled in all facets of his masters program. He was free to do what he pleased; the amount of knowledge he gained was astounding. This was noted by the much respected Design Against Crime Research Centre , which Hobart began to work with on a regular basis. Then it was done, and here we are. Young Hobart has amassed an amazing amount of skills over these years and learned all that technical shit you see on every resume. You are in an interesting spot. You have the opportunity to utilize the talents this young man possesses and watch him soar like the magnificent fighter jets of Miramar.	Rancho Bernardo Golf Course 97-01
